Company Overview

In accordance with the Fighting Against Forced Labour and Child Labour in Supply Chains Act, SC 2023, c 9 (the “Canadian Act”), this statement outlines the measures implemented by Würth Canada Limited/Limitée to address the risks of modern slavery, including but not limited to forced and child labour¹ within our operations and supply chain.

At Würth Canada Ltd., we actively uphold human rights and work to prevent any violation of others’ human rights through the policies and procedures we have established. We are committed to establishing safe, inclusive, and respectful work environments wherever we conduct business. We value the fundamental rights of our employees and all who work within our supply chain, which encompass freedom from slavery and child labour, equal opportunities for all, a safe and healthy workplace, and freedom from discrimination and harassment.

Würth Canada Ltd. continues to develop and expand our understanding of the risks associated with the complex issue of modern slavery and to identify areas within our operations and broader supply chain that may be impacted by such challenges. We collaborate across our business and supply chain to implement appropriate practices that mitigate and address potential risks.

Modern slavery is completely unacceptable within our organization and supply chains. Würth Canada Ltd. acknowledges our responsibility to uphold the rights of individuals working for our organization, as well as those associated with suppliers and business partners who prioritize human rights for their own employees. Recognizing that human rights issues require multifaceted approaches, we consider it crucial to engage with all stakeholders to promote awareness and foster understanding.

Part I – Structure, Operations and Supply Chains

Our Structure

Würth Canada Limited/Limitée (BN 892019647) is a Canadian corporation that was founded in Montreal, Québec, in 1971. It is part of the Würth Group, one of the world’s largest suppliers of assembly and fastening materials as well as chemicals to several key industries, including automotive, trucking, industrial, and construction. Würth Canada is wholly owned by Würth International, which has its head office in Chur, Switzerland. Würth International has a controlling interest in most of Würth’s foreign (non-German) subsidiaries. Würth Canada operates through various channels, including face-to-face interactions, phone support, online services, and in-store assistance. It employs over 500 employees and collaborates with various partners and customers including automotive manufacturers, auto body shops, repair facilities, dealerships, and more.

The head office and Eastern/Central Canada warehouse was initially established in Mississauga, Ontario and later moved to Guelph, Ontario, in 2014. Additionally, there is a second warehouse near Edmonton, Alberta (Acheson) to serve customers in Western Canada. In 2021, Würth Canada opened its first pickup shop in Vaughan, Ontario. It is the first ever Würth 24/7 Store in North America. The automated system allows customers to enter the store and shop after hours. In 2024, Würth Canada opened another warehouse in Mississauga, Ontario that will also host a pickup shop for our customers.

Würth Canada meets the criteria for being an “entity” under the Canadian Act because it meets all three conditions:

1. It has at least $20 million in assets
2. It has generated at least $40 million in revenue; and
3. It employs an average of at least 250 employees.

Part II – Policies and Due Diligence Processes

Würth Canada Ltd. has set policies, codes, and procedures addressing its obligations to treat our employees, customers, and suppliers with the highest possible level of dignity and respect, as well as our expectations that our suppliers do the same. These documents are:

- Würth Group Code of Compliance
- Würth Group Policy and Procedure (PAP)

- Würth Canada Quality Management System (QMS) Manual
- Würth Group Rapid-Plant Assessment (RPA) Checklist
- Würth Industry Supplier Quality Audit questionnaire
- Würth Canada Ltd – Policy and Procedures Manual for Internal Staff
- Würth Canada Ltd – Policy and Procedures Manual for Sales Representatives
- Würth Canada Ltd – Conflict of Interest Policy
- General Terms and Conditions of Purchase of Würth Canada

In addition, Würth Canada Ltd. has put in place policies, procedures, and due diligence measures specifically to address the complex problems of forced labour and child labour. These documents are:

- Würth Canada Ltd – Modern Slavery, Forced Labour and Child Labour Policy

Our policies and practices are guided by international and industry-leading standards, such as:

- Current Canadian Bill S-211 – An Act to enact the Fighting Against Forced Labour and Child Labour in Supply Chains Act and to amend the Customs Tariff (the Act)
- United Nations Universal Declaration of Human Rights (UDHR)
- International Labour Organization (ILO) Standards & Guidelines
- United Nations Convention of the Rights of the Child (UNCRC)
- ICC Business Charter for Sustainable Development
- Business Principles from Transparency International in their fight against corruption

Generally, contracted suppliers are requested by Würth Canada Ltd. to comply with the Würth Group Code of Compliance, ensuring fair and ethical workplace standards across our supply chain, including the prohibition of forced labour, and requiring compliance with forced labour and modern slavery laws through use of the Würth Group Rapid-Plant Assessment (RPA) Checklist and/or Würth Industry Supplier Quality Audit questionnaire. Würth Canada Ltd. supports the goals of the Canadian Act and takes seriously our responsibility to act with due diligence to avoid infringing on the human rights of others and address any impact on human rights if they occur.

Würth Group Code of Compliance

Würth Canada Ltd. adheres to the Würth Group Code of Compliance that sets out our values and responsibilities on respectful, safe, healthy workplaces, and a culture of inclusion and diversity. The Code of Compliance places special emphasis on the importance of fostering an environment for open and honest communication by encouraging employees and other business parties to use our SPEAKUP reporting hotline (online at <https://www.bkms-system.net/wuerth>) when confronted with compliance, ethics, legal or other concerns. Our Code of Compliance also focuses on our commitment to protecting and advancing human dignity and human rights to guide our relationships with employees, suppliers, and others through whom we conduct business, including by addressing human trafficking.

The Code of Compliance is managed by the compliance and legal team of the Würth Group, and in conjunction with the Würth Canada Ltd. Compliance Officer & Human Resources Department and is reviewed annually and updated as necessary. The Code of Compliance is accessible for all employees on the homepage of ADP, Würth Canada Ltd.'s Human Resources Information System.

Supplier Code of Compliance (Würth Group) and Contractual Obligations

Würth Canada Ltd. supplier relationships are guided by the Würth Group's Code of Compliance.

We have implemented practices by including clauses that both prohibit against using forced or child labour and impose penalties or sanctions for same. These are contained in our Würth Group Policy and Procedure (PAP), General Terms and Conditions of Purchase of Würth Canada, and Würth Industry Supplier Quality Audit questionnaire. The Code of Compliance sets minimum expectations and guidelines for suppliers, and obligates them to comply with applicable laws, including those related to forced and child labour and human trafficking. Würth Canada Ltd. keeps records of all contractual counterparts, and our supplier contracts contain risk mitigation and enforcement provisions.

Würth Industry can perform Supplier Quality Audits on behalf of Würth Canada Ltd. The audit's questionnaire asks if the supplier verifies the age of employees at the time of recruitment. Furthermore, compliance audits performed by Würth Industry on behalf of Würth Canada Ltd. use another questionnaire which also has questions regarding child labour. Additionally, Würth Industry suppliers are required to sign the Code of Compliance which states child labour, or any exploitation of children or young people is not tolerated. The Code of Compliance signed by suppliers also states all forms of forced labour are rejected by Würth Industry.

Würth Canada Ltd. requests that all suppliers, accept the terms of the General Terms and Conditions of Purchase of Würth Canada.

The General Terms and Conditions of Purchase of Würth Canada is managed by the Purchasing Department at Würth Canada Ltd. and is reviewed annually and updated as necessary.

Human Rights and Human Trafficking Policies

Reporting Process

Würth Canada Ltd. has a SPEAKUP reporting hotline (online at <https://www.bkms-system.net/wuerth>), which is the Würth Group's whistleblower program. Allegations of any breaches of our policies or any non-compliant and unethical matters are taken seriously. The hotline is made available to employees, suppliers, customers, and other business parties, in an online format with multiple languages to submit a report. Retaliation against anyone, including employees, suppliers, customers, and other business parties speaking up in good faith, is strictly prohibited as specified in our Code of Compliance.

Should we determine a supplier is in non-compliance with the Canadian Act, or uses, directly or indirectly, forced labour or child labour, we will notify the supplier of the breach and cease the working relationship until corrective action is put into place. The supplier will also be placed on the Würth Group's "Blocked Suppliers List".

By putting in place these formal policies, specifically the Code of Compliance for employees and suppliers, and our compliance and monitoring standards, Würth Canada Ltd. actions its commitment to healthy, safe, and respectful working conditions throughout the Würth Canada Ltd. supply chain. Forced labour and child labour are contrary to Würth Canada Ltd. core values.

Our Due Diligence Processes

Würth Canada Ltd. has implemented several due diligence measures to ensure multiple layers of review. As part of our preventative approach, all employees are assigned the Code of Compliance, and key internal departments are provided with the Würth Group's Policies and Procedures (PAP). At the time of contract assignment, suppliers receive our General Terms and Conditions of Purchase, which outline expectations regarding responsible business practices. Supplier responses are reviewed through established internal protocols, including screening processes conducted during account setup and regular ongoing reviews. The Würth Group maintains a "Blocked Suppliers List". Throughout the Group, suppliers are blocked for various reasons including violations of compliance guidelines and ethical abuses such as child labor. Würth Canada Ltd. also utilizes a third-party sanctions screening service to support an initial supplier onboarding screening process and monthly database screenings for all current suppliers. When necessary, appropriate actions are taken in response to potential concerns, which may include contract termination and placement on the Würth Group's Blocked Suppliers List.

Part III – Risks of Forced Labour and Child Labour in Operations and Supply Chains

We expect all suppliers, regardless of the cultural, social, and economic context, to meet expectations of fundamental rights for all people. This means treating their employees with fairness, respect and dignity, and following practices that protect health and safety for the people working for them.

Würth Canada Ltd. assesses high risk suppliers for forced labour or child labour in our supply chain, through "Our Due Diligence Processes" as noted above. Würth Canada Ltd. is not aware of any forced labour or child labour in our supply chain.

Part IV – Measures to Remedy Forced Labour and Child Labour

Würth Canada Ltd. is not aware of any incidents of forced labour or child labour in our activities or supply chain in our past financial year, subject to the limitations of our risk identification activities as described in more detail above and below. Accordingly, Würth Canada Ltd. has not had to take any remedial measures in response to incidents of forced labour or child labour.

Part V – Measures to Remediate the Loss of Income to those Impacted by the Elimination of Forced Labour and Child Labour

Würth Canada Ltd. has not, as of the date of this report, become aware of any loss of income to vulnerable families resulting from our measures to eliminate the use of forced labour and child labour in our activities and supply chains.

Part VI – Training Provided to Employees

Every single employee and leader at Würth Canada Ltd., including new hires as part of the onboarding process within 30 days of employment, are assigned mandatory training including content regarding forced labour and child labour, which is developed from the Würth Group's Code of Compliance through our Learning Management System (LMS) online platform. The training package includes four courses, taking a total time of approximately 2 hours, with a record of completion.

- Compliance 1 - Compliance Basics (30 minutes)
- Compliance 2 - Preventing Corruption (30 minutes)
- Compliance 3 - Handling Information (30 minutes)
- Compliance 4 - Fair Competition (40 minutes)

Part VII – Assessing Effectiveness of Actions against Forced Labour and Child Labour

We recognize the need to implement effective measures to identify and mitigate the risk of forced and child labour within our operations and supply chains. We are currently examining how best to conduct these assessments.

We will review annually our reporting document and update as necessary to ensure that it reflects the emerging consensus on best practices to address these complex issues. We also will annually review our questionnaire to our suppliers, and process to ensure continued compliance and implement any improvements required to ensure we are accurately obtaining and retaining information from our external and indirect suppliers.
